Russia Fails To Stall Conference Gromyko Attacks Japanese Treaty

San Francisco, (AP)—Soviet Russia, steam-rollered in an attempt to stall the Japanese peace conference, charged last night the treaty nations have been asked to sign an "aggressive military alliance with the United States."

Andre Gromyko, Russia's delegate and fiery leader of the three-nation Communist bloc, ripped into the proposed text, saying it was "not a treaty for peace, but a treaty for the preparation of a new war in the Far East."

Gromyko's efforts to stall the conference by demanding that Communist China be invited to attend were voted down by resounding margins.

Dean Acheson, U. S. secretary of state and Gromyko's arch rival in many an international meeting of the past few years, was named president of the conference.

Even more reassuring support of the American and British-sponsored treaty was found in the 48 to 3 adoption of rules of procedure which would prohibit Russia and all other delegations from talking for more than one hour each.

Only Poland and Czechoslovakia voted with Russia in opposing the rules.

Delegates to the conference met three times in the first plenary session. They met for three hours yesterday morning, another three hours in the afternoon and 35 minutes last night. The second plenary session begins at 10 a. m. today (1 p. m. EDT).

There was a major effort under way to get the conference over with so the signing could take place as scheduled Saturday afternoon.

The Russian delegate was being more of a show than he was a threat to the progress of the meeting.

The scowling Gromyko came to the opera house podium and declared the American written treaty "is clearing the path for Japanese participation in an aggressive military bloc in the Far East."

It was the caustic, critical attack that American delegates to the peace conference here had expected ever since Russia had announced she would attend.

With this speech, however, Gromyko apparently had shot his bolt.

The lawmakers approved a proposal to take a substantial chunk out of all wagers on numbers, races and similar commercial operations. But they specifically exempted such long established items as poker, blackjack and craps.

It was explained, succinctly, that it is hard to figure how much money goes across a dice table. Most persons familiar with the game will agree that every dollar wagered usually circulates across the table several times.

Despite an admission from a straight-faced Treasury department spokesman that the tax-collecting agency has some doubts about how the Federal revenue can be harvested, the Senate Finance committee decided to take a chance on the new levy. The decision completed the committee's work on major items for the $6,200,000,000 tax increase bill.

The House had adopted the tax with a statement it did not intend to give the color of legality to any illegal enterprise.

"No! I am making a statement in explanation of my position," Gromyko shot back.

Gromyko then turned to the microphone and finished his blistering attack, which actually included amendment proposals.

One point he raised was sharply aimed at a planned security pact between America and Japan which would provide for stationing U. S. troops there until Japan has an army of her own.

He asked for an amendment to the treaty which would call for withdrawal of all foreign troops within 90 days after the treaty comes into force.

Gromyko charged in summing up his slashing attack on the British-American sponsored treaty that it is "not a treaty for peace but a treaty for the preparation of a new war in the Far East."

This was one of numerous points of conclusion which he stated.

As the afternoon session got underway, Gromyko sat quietly in his seat, listening to U. S. Ambassador John Foster Dulles, who outlined the origins and terms of the treaty.

Dulles traced the occupation of Japan which began six years ago and said America was capable of saying when that occupation should end because "the U. S. was given exclusive right to name the supreme commander."

That feature is inherent in the whole idea of an atom-powered

AN APPLE FOR THE TEACHER—but with variations as these three young pupils prepare for the first day of school. Mary Lou Stevens, in the center, goes for the traditional big red apple. Carol Snyder, right, thinks maybe a peach would be more of a compliment, but if we're not mistaken that object that Judy Stevens, left, is holding is related to a crab-apple. Watch it, Judy. ## Eight Soviet-Type Tanks Spotted In Western Korea

U. S. Eighth Army Headquarters, Korea, Thursday (AP)—Russian-type tanks were reported today on the West Korean front—their first appearance since last Winter.

The reports accented Allied belief that 700,000 Reds, including thousands of Caucasi ans and backed by at least 1,000 planes, were getting ready to open a huge offensive against the Allies.

Eight T-34 tanks, the standard Russian tank in World War Two, were spotted by ground and air observers in the vicinity of Yonchon, 35 miles north of Seoul.

Allied fliers saw two of the tanks firing on United Nations infantrymen.

Some tanks moved within 1,500 yards of Allied positions west of Yonchon, which is six miles north of Parallel 38.

A Red battalion, about 1,000 men, was seen in the area of the tanks. The western front—which embraces Kaesong, site of the suspended Korean truce talks—has been in a lull which extends back past the opening of the truce talks July 10.

The hard fighting presently is in the east.

Bitterly-contested "Bloody ridge" 16 miles north of Parallel 38, fell with surprising ease to U. S. infantrymen in that sector Wednesday. The occupation ended a 17-day battle.

The end came suddenly. In the final assault, the infantry swept up the crests against only light resistance on the jagged ridge line. The Allies found only a few broken remnants of a North Korean regi ment.

Named as defendants in the action along with the union were 31 operators, including the "big four" of the copper industry and the big producers of lead and zinc in northern Idaho.

Air Force Awards Contract For Development Of World's First Atomic-Powered Airplane

Washington (AP)—Atomic powered flight moved another step from the laboratory toward the factory stage yesterday with the award of a contract for development of the first airplane.

The Air Force confined the disclosure of its plans to a statement that the aircraft's frame will be developed at the General Electric Company's gas turbine division at Lockheed, Ohio.

Early planning toward atomic-powered flight found its major obstacle in the weight of the nuclear plant and the heavy shielding to protect men and delicate instruments from atomic radiation.

Present plans are based on the necessity to get the human crew members as far as possible from the lethal rays and intense heat of the atomic engine.

Engineers now believe that it will be possible to construct an

Allies Defy Reds To Shift Truce Talks

Tokyo, Thursday (AP)—Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway today hurled a blistering criticism at the Reds' Korean war commanders and challenged them to switch the suspended talks away from Kaesong.

The supreme Allied commander, refusing to give an inch on demands the Reds say are required to get the talks going again, let fly his sharpest statement.

He not only flatly denied Communist charges of Allied air and ground violations at Kaesong but suggested they were "initiated and perpetrated by your forces."

Then Ridgway recommended that his liaison officers meet with Reds six miles east of Kaesong and choose some other site in the interests of achieving "a just and honorable military armistice."

Ridgway, despite the sharpness of his note, sought to bring about resumption of talks which began July 10 at Kaesong and were suspended on August 23 by the Reds.

Since the Reds broke off the talks after charging an Allied plane bombed Kaesong August 22, they have issued a stream of complaints and protests alleging Allied violations of the neutral zone. The Allies have denied all of the charges.

Singmaster made the announcement upon his return from New York City, where he visited with MacArthur at the general's hotel suite.

MacArthur will be accompanied by Mrs. MacArthur and their son, Arthur. Singmaster said he will go to New York on September 20 and motor back with the general, arriving at the fair grounds about 1 p. m. September 21 has been designated as father and son day at the fair.

Singmaster said MacArthur's visit here would be "strictly non-political," and that he would make no speeches.

Singmaster said he had also invited as guests for the same day, Gov. John S. Fine, both of Pennsylvania's United States Senators, and the State's entire congressional delegation.

They said a "more favorable atmosphere" than Kaesong would improve chances of reaching an agreement that might avoid start of World War Three.

The Allies said earlier the Reds were doing just that.

Washington, (AP)—Senators Aiken (R-Vt) and Young (R-N.D.) yesterday urged President Truman to ask a shift in location of the Korean cease-fire negotiations to Switzerland.

They said a "more favorable atmosphere" than Kaesong would improve chances of reaching an agreement that might avoid start of World War Three.

Washington, (AP)—Price Director Michael V. DiSalle said yesterday the nation's auto makers will probably be granted a six to eight per cent boost in the factory price of new cars.

DiSalle's agency said the formal order will be issued late Friday. Officials said Tuesday they expected the boost to go into effect October 1.

Officials also disclosed more bad news for consumers: the six to eight per cent hike in manufacturers' prices will be topped by a further price jump at retail levels.

DiSalle told newsmen the new price formula is too complicated to estimate the range of increase on the various car models. Manufacturers will have to figure their calculations on the formula in Friday's order.

But the price-control chief said the increases will be "somewhat lower" than the average nine to 10 per cent raise asked by the industry.

DiSalle said the higher prices are being granted to manufacturers to cover increased costs of labor and materials since the outbreak of the Korean war in late June, 1950.

Two Hurricanes
Churn Atlantic

Miami, Fla. (AP)—Two hurricanes churned the vast reaches of the Atlantic yesterday, one new born and the other two days old and packing "dangerous" 135 mile an hour winds.

A third disturbance in the Caribbean disintegrated into 40-mile-an-hour squalls.

The new storm called "Fox" was spotted about 1,700 miles east of Antigua, British West Indies. It was the sixth of the season.

The automobile section provided the initial impulse. Steel, oils, coppers, and rails joined in the advance.

These Children

Riding To School

Rhinelander, Wis. (AP)—It's not like the old days, when you used to waddle to school along a country road, digging your bare toes into the sand.

Nor is it even like last year, just riding the buses, Oneida county rural children found out yesterday when schools reopened.

The greatest difference between the jet bomber of today and the atomic-powered plane of tomorrow probably will be its outward appearance. Many engineers have had a try at designing the body and frame of an atomic plane.

Now county school officials have set up a daily 7:30-8 a. m. radio program full of "beneficial information and instruction" over a Rhinelander station. And the 2,900 bus-riding kids can't escape—the drivers have orders to tune it in.

Charles Allen, Patrolman Who Jailed Burgess After Altercation, Returns Today

Suspended Police Officer Charles Allen was reinstated with full pay by the borough council last night.

Allen was suspended August 20 after locking Burgess Hal H. Harris in the municipal jail. The two earlier had scuffled on Seventh St. after an argument over traffic.

The officer attended the council meeting alone last night, dressed in a brown civilian suit.

The meeting started at 7:30 p. m. It was 7:55 p. m. before the suspension matter was brought up.

Councilman H. G. Heller, Fifth ward, moved the reinstatement with full pay, dating from day of suspension. Councilman Edward Doran, First ward, seconded immediately.

No discussion of the incident preceded council's unanimous vote to reinstate Allen.

Only previous reference to the affair was by Police Chief James McConnell, who in a routine report stated simply that Allen had been suspended following "an altercation . . ."

After the vote, the council moved on promptly to routine business.

Chief McConnell said Allen will be back in uniform and working the morning shift today.

Allen said he had spent most of the period he was under suspension "just killing time."

Even with Allen back in uniform, the force is still under its authorized strength.

Council was told only one man had applied to take the examination for patrolman scheduled for Sept. 11.

MacArthur To

Attend Fair

At Allentown

Allentown (AP)—Gen. Douglas MacArthur will make his first visit to Pennsylvania since his return from Japan as guest of honor at the Allentown fair on September 21. H. M. Singmaster, president of the Lehigh County Agricultural Society, said last night.

Singmaster made the announcement upon his return from New York City, where he visited with MacArthur at the general's hotel suite.

MacArthur will be accompanied by Mrs. MacArthur and their son, Arthur. Singmaster said he will go to New York on September 20 and motor back with the general, arriving at the fair grounds about 1 p. m. September 21 has been designated as father and son day at the fair.

Singmaster said MacArthur's visit here would be "strictly non-political," and that he would make no speeches.

Singmaster said he had also invited as guests for the same day, Gov. John S. Fine, both of Pennsylvania's United States Senators, and the State's entire congressional delegation.

The hill would extend and strengthen the ring of Air Force bases now being built around Soviet Russia and her satellites. It also is intended to provide the forts, camps, naval bases and depots for an armed force of 3,500,000. Many of the projects are highly secret.

Seven Fliers Die
In Plane Crash
Near Submarine

Flemington, N. J. (AP)—Authorities last night explored all angles of the gunshot death Tuesday of author Louis Adamic but stood pat on a tentative suicide verdict amid theories he had been slain by Stalinist agents.

Louis P. Budenz, ex-Communist, said yesterday in a statement there is a "very strong possibility" that Adamic, writer and supporter of minorities, was killed by Red agents.

The Inquirer said Philadelphia underworld circles were buzzing with the report of Sutton's death.

The 51-year-old Sutton, whose carefully planned bank robberies and jailbreaks made him notorious, still is wanted by the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

Arthur J. Cornelius, special agent in charge of the Philadelphia office, said when told of the Inquirer report that "Sutton is still one of the FBI's most-hunted men."

Adamic was found dead with a rifle bullet in his head in his blazing farmhouse at Milford, N. J., some 10 miles west of here.

The 42-year-old Yugoslav native had been writing a book on Marshall Tito and Tito's break with Russian Communists.

The Navy reported the mystery crash yesterday and said the pilot, a P-2V, was maneuvering "in an exercise with a submarine."

Two more submarines, surface ships and planes from here and New York searched the disaster area, 30 miles east of Montauk Point, Long Island, N. Y. It was the same stretch of sea where 41 persons drowned or are missing in a fishing boat capsizing last Saturday.

Late yesterday, however, the Navy announced that search was abandoned and there was no trace of the fliers' bodies.

Cause of the disaster was not known, the Navy said.

Burglary Occurs At Food Center

Thieves broke into the Ackerman Food center, 125 Broad St., Stroudsburg, late Tuesday night and stole $50 worth of groceries and $5 cash.

Police Chief James McConnell said last night a passing motorist reported seeing one of them emerge from the front door of the store shortly after midnight.

The motorist said the man was pushing a heavily-laden supermarket cart ahead of him onto the sidewalk.

Chief McConnell said several cans of food were later found in front of the store. They had apparently fallen off the loaded cart.

Entry was probably about 11 p.m., the chief said, through a nine-foot-high side window. It had been broken.

Also found broken was a basement window which had been shovelled in from the outside. The falling frame broke a number of bottles of soft drinks stored below. Chief McConnell said the thieves apparently had given up the basement window in favor of the other.

The $50 worth of merchandise taken included canned and bottled goods and cigarettes. The money was taken from the cash register. The store is owned by Paul E. Ackerman.

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

The gridiron warriors of Tanenbaum Tech were taking an awful shellacking and Head Coach Rafferty suffered on the bench with his head in his hands.

"They've lost their fight and will to win," he groaned. Suddenly he spied two-hundred pound substitute Hooley swathed in a blanket — a solid mass of brawn without one inch of brain. "Get in there," ordered Coach Rafferty, "and get rambunctious. I sure will, Coach," growled Hooley, "but which one is he?"

An important official in the Department of Defense at the Pentagon Building assured an anxious constituent, "We'll get our differences with Soviet Russia cleared away all right some day.

First, however, we've got to straighten out San Francisco vs. Los Angeles. Dallas vs. Fort Worth, and Minneapolis vs. St. Paul."

Hollywood — For many years, Jay C. Flippen was a Broadway bright light — master of ceremonies, hooper and singer in vaudeville and musical comedy. Also, he recalls: "I was the poor man's George Jessel. Every dinner that George didn't toast, I did."

Now this graying, big man from Little Rock has done a complete switch — character actor in the movies. From foot-lighted comedian he has become an ex-convict, a seaman, an Army sergeant, or longshoreman. Once he followed the Broadway performer's round — theater, night club, and back to the hotel at 4 a.m.

Now he owns a home in the Valley is a member of the Chamber of Commerce, and grows fruit trees, lawn, and flowers.

"I've reached the pipe and slippers age," he says. But Flippen, 51, is only kidding. His role as sheriff in "The Las Vegas Story" is his ninth in pictures, which he calls "the simplest touch in the world."

"Open in a stage show in the fall," he explained, "and by the first sign of spring you'd like to get out. In movies there's a lot of excitement — a western one day, a drawing room the next."

The variety of his picture parts he attributes to his lucky star. While still known as a stage funnyman, he had played Jester Lester in summer theater production of "Tobacco Road." A movie director who saw that forced him the part of an escape-leading convict in "They Live By Night." Ordinarily, he observed, this would have typed him henceforth as an escaped convict. But a little pushing from the same director got him into "Flying Leathernecks" as a comedy Marine sergeant. Jay thinks it's his best work to date.

Flippen stands six feet one and weighs 190 pounds. His thatch is so thick that Benny and Allen have made cracks about putting on old clothes and roughing it in Flippen's hair. When asked if that's his real name, Jay says, "You don't think I'd change it from something else to Flippen, do you?"

These Days -- By George E. Sokolsky

British policy has always been based on keeping Europe sufficiently weak so that England would never be dominated. It has been a policy of shifting alliances to that were reversed, we could equally be pro-German and anti-French. It is a law of public policy which we are following, and not a mere expedient dictated by accidental circumstances, or likes and dislikes, or any other sentiment."

As matters now stand, dominant power does exist in Europe, Soviet Russia, and the British can do nothing about it. Having in two wars made the historic error of eliminating Germany and weakening France, Great Britain has left Europe open to Russian conquest. Similarly in Asia, the elimination of Japan from the ranks of the first-rate powers opened the way for Russia and a Russian-controlled China to dominate that continent.

From the strictly British standpoint, World War I and World War II were fatal historic errors. Both destroyed the balances of power and led to the Slavic-Mongolian overlordship.

Such countries as India and Iran and the Arab states have to view the fall of British power objectively and with due consideration for their own interests. For Iran, association with Great Britain, particularly since 1907 (Anglo-Russian entente), used to mean protection against Russian imperialism. The absorption of the Khanates of Khiva and Bu-khara into the czarist realm in 1873 brought Persia (now called Iran) closer to the Russian boundary.

India cannot defend herself, nor can Great Britain defend India. Should such defense be necessary, it would again fall to the United States to do it in response to a United Nations resolution.

Such countries as Iran and India do not believe that American public opinion will tolerate the use of American troops all over the world. They fear that should it come to a showdown, they will be left holding the bag. In the good-old imperialistic days they knew exactly what imperial Britain would do under circumstances. In the present "one world" era, led by the United States they do not know what can be done or will be done by anyone except Soviet Russia.

British leadership had value because it was always based on practical considerations. It was knowledgeable that if a price were paid, the British would respond. With Great Britain no longer an empire and unable to defend even its own islands, much less its outposts, the future of countries on the Russian periphery is perilous. It would require keen statesmanship, with promises scrupulously kept, to cultivate the situation.

The Indian situation is more complex and is aggravated by the socialism of Nehru, as well as by his mercantile nature. Nehru has had relations with Communism at least since 1929, but apart

Ex-Mrs. Mafia Mobster

Her neighbors know nothing of her past . . . She is the gracious hostess of a mansion—it could justifiably be called a castle—in California — after her third marriage, to a man who adores her . . . He inherited many millions of dollars, is an aristocrat, art collector and connoisseur . . .

He knows her background . . . But he revealed that such a man as he can fall in love with the same woman for whom one of the most murderous and malodorous gangsters in American annals threw over his underworld wife—which cost him his own life, for her Sicilian kin swore a vendetta against him and assassinated him . . . I know the story well, for I introduced her and this master - racketeer when I brought the girl into the joint he maintained as a front.

Many think newspapermen have no consciences, that they would and do sacrifice anyone and anything for a "story" . . . I could give the names in this one and it it would then be believed, whereas in this form many will think

I dreamed it up . . . If I did authenticate it with all the facts, this beautiful and sensitive woman would probably flee from her home, from crowds that would gather to ogle her; change the whole form of the life she has learned to love and abandon the peace, serenity and security which is hers after years of melodrama, tragedy, notoriety and shame . . .

I could illustrate it with pictures, for I have some, of her and the bridegroom on her first honeymoon . . . But, as I have reported this true "item," she will not be identified, and by me she will never be while she lives . . .

Her early mistake will not purse her, like Banquo's ghost, from the grave, whistled up by me to prove a couple of paragraphs.

But she will read this and she will know whom I mean and she will understand.

Marlene Dietrich has completed the cycle. When I first saw her in a German silent film, "The Blue Angel," my eyes popped.

Soon she electrified us in the talkies, with both sight and sound attraction. And now she has signed for an ABC radio series,

"Cafe Istanbul," in which she will be heard but not seen. What a waste!

Do you know why I have avoided criticizing those cadets?

Because I was thinking of all the cheating that I did in my young years

Because I remembered how,

when I went to college, there was a brisk trade in new and used "cribs" going on everywhere.

Because I was thinking of all the "wild oats" I sowed in my early days.

Which, however, did not prevent me from growing up into a fairly decent citizen.

A couple of days ago I had a letter from Montreal.

The fellow commended me on my column about the discourtesy of our customs officers.

But he did not agree with what I said about the customs officers in England and France.

"The French customs men," he said, "I have invariably found that they are the most honest and efficient customs officers in the world."

Well, that wasn't my impression.

The last time I was in France,

I had a woman customs inspector at Cherbourg.

This woman was about as native and as impolite as anyone I have ever seen.

She went through the passengers' luggage with a fine tooth

comb and left everything in disorder.

Then, finally, when she was done, she put a chalk mark on

Borough Council Authorizes Extension Of Eighth St. Sewer

Up To $3,500
To Be Spent
On Project

Stroudsburg's borough council last night voted to spend between $3,000 and $3,500 to extend the present sewer on North Eighth St. from Fulmer Ave. to Phillips St.

The extension will serve five houses at present, but council was advised more property owners are planning to build when the sewer is available.

Work on the project will be by the borough force.

It was agreed to transfer from the sinking fund to sewer fund $4,000 to cover principal and $1,650 to cover interest on a 1948 sewer extension bond issue.

Total bills for August were reported as $10,616.71 for the regular account and $1,040.81 for the sewer account.

Borough treasurer said the balance in the regular account stood at $17,659.42, and in the sewer account, $11,656.44.

Administrative and labor costs in the streets and playgrounds department were $2,443.35, with cost of work on streets totalling $724.24.

Police Chief James McConnell reported the total of arrests and citations for the month as 83, with the sum of fines adding up to $237. The health department made 37 inspections.

It was voted to award the contract for painting the outside of the municipal building to R. M. Franz, who entered the low bid of $378.50. Other bidders were E. R. and Heller, $684, and Clarence W. Smith, $1,235.60.

A representative of the contractor erecting the new J. J. Newberry Co. store on Main St. asked council's permission to erect storage sheds and tool houses on Eighth St., alongside the building site.

They would occupy a space from the edge of the sidewalk to a line five feet out into the street, he said.

Councilmen observed that with five feet taken off, the street would be only 21 feet wide; if cars were parked at the meters on the east side of the street, there would be only 15 feet left for passage of traffic.

Council elected to delay decision until more specific plans are presented by the contractor.

Permission was granted the Naval Electronics Warfare unit to install a radar set "for instruction purposes" on the roof of the municipal building.

A letter from the State Bureau of Prisons inspector reported the condition of the municipal lock-up as "good."

Councilmen approved the purchase of a 10-ton floor jack for use by the Stroudsburg fire department.

Elderly Man Injured When Hit By Car

Sciotia — A Bethlehem man was struck by a car at 3:30 p.m. yesterday as he crossed Route 115 about a mile west of here.

He was George W. Matter, 69, who suffered a broken knee cap and possible internal injuries when he was knocked to the concrete.

Brodheadsville State police said the driver was Patrick A. Sandor, 39, of White Haven, who was driving his sedan south toward Saylorsburg.

Police said Sandor told them Matter crossed the road to answer a truck driver's shouted inquiry. Matter gave the truck driver directions, Sandor told police.

The administrators concurred with the findings of the master, Robert Brigham, and suggested that the residuary estate be awarded in one-third shares to Constance K. Mock, Wilson P. Kreischmar and J. Howard McGrath, attorney general of the United States. McGrath as attorney general represents the vested interests of Johann Peter Christian Schaefer, first of Germany, under the U. S. claim for the property of an enemy alien.

Preliminary estimates indicate that when all taxes, fees and other claims are paid, each one-third share will be about $2,000.00.

Subdivision Should Be Well Planned

There is more to the proper subdivision of property than the haphazard cutting up of acreage into the maximum number of small lots, according to experts.

On the contrary, they point out, it involves the adjustment and coordination of streets, various types and sizes of lots, parks, playgrounds, and commercial districts into a satisfactory and complete plan.

The developer should be guided in the plotting of the property by the following considerations:

One—The advice and assistance of a qualified subdivision planner will be effective in solving the many technical problems in connection with the plotting and improving of a subdivision.

Two—The city or regional plan should be followed, and suitable and generous provisions should be made for the extension of important thoroughfares.

Three—Minor residential streets should be designed so as to discourage through traffic, arranged so that the traffic flows toward the thoroughfares and as far as practical, the streets intersect at right angles, thus eliminating wasteful pointed lots and traffic dangers.

Four—As far as practical, the streets should follow the contour of the land.

Five—Neighborhood store and local commercial sites should be set aside at important intersections and at suitable intervals, with generous provision for the parking of cars.

Six—In general, block lengths should not be less than 600 nor more than 1000 feet in length, thus eliminating unnecessary cross streets; permanent cross walks should be provided midway when longer blocks are used.

Seven—With the exception of row or group houses, lots should tend toward greater width and less depth. They preferably should be not less than 50 feet in width and not deeper than two and one-half times the width.

Eight—Rugged broken areas or low land, expensive to develop as home sites should be dedicated as parks, and suitable areas should be set aside for recreational purposes and playgrounds.

Sites For Schools

Nine—Where advisable, appropriate sites for schools, churches and other community buildings should be provided.

Ten—The lot lines should be perpendicular to the streets, and corner lots should be generous in width.

Eleven—Where desirable, it is advisable to group houses on dead-end streets, thus avoiding noise and traffic hazard.

Twelve—Where practical, parks, playgrounds, or community gardens should be developed in the interior of the wide blocks.

Thirteen—With the exception of the dead-ends, the widths of residential streets should be a minimum of 50 feet, and turns should be provided on dead-end streets with a radius of at least 30 feet.

Fourteen—Alleys, 20 feet in width, should be provided to service row dwellings, commercial areas, and multi-family dwellings, but they should not be provided in residential blocks of detached homes.

Beige Popular For Paneling

In fabrics or paint, beige is a popular shade — neutral enough to mix well with any color, yet handsome enough to stand by itself.

For a different treatment for knotty pine paneling or a fine modern pine for clear pine or walls should be provided midway when it's unbeatable.

Prepare the surfaces by sanding with No. 0 or finer sandpaper and fill exposed nail holes with pure yellow beeswax or tinted non-shrinking crack filler. Always make up several wood color samples as test pieces before applying the stain to installed paneling. Use trim from the paneling to be stained and remember that large unbroken wall areas appear darker when stained than a small test piece.

Mix zinc oxide and lithopone in China wood oil tinted with a small amount of burnt sienna. Apply one coat and follow with a coat of wax.

Beige paneling provides a perfect backdrop for colorful modern art or furnishings.

Aluminum Paint In Three Types

There are three different types of aluminum paint now on the market. One type — aluminum house paint — produces an elastic film that clings to wood, expands and contracts with it. A second type — aluminum m. and masonry paint — is for stonework, brick and concrete, while aluminum enamel — the third type — is used to decorate interiors and to protect heated surfaces indoors.

Small Lavatory

A new corner lavatory, 18 inches on the wall sides, has just been introduced which will prove ideal for rooms where space is at a premium. The corner lavatory takes full advantage of corner space that might otherwise be wasted, yet gives the user complete freedom of arm movement, says the Plumbing and Heating Industries Bureau.

Ventilated Basements

Most basement recreation rooms cannot be well ventilated by natural means. Windows are necessarily high, and stale air, fails to the floor and is trapped. A ventilating fan or some other form of forced draft should be installed in such rooms.

Tints Help In Concealing Bad Spacing

Long a valued device of interior decorators, the use of wall and ceiling tints to conceal bad proportions and accent the feeling of space is now being commonly used by home owners.

Light colors, those mixed with white, tend to create a feeling of space and should be used as a groundwork when this effect is sought. By using a gray background throughout the house, brightened with light shades of yellow, pale green, coral or other similar tints, a sense of space will be attained, and normally dark rooms will appear brighter.

If the house is too dark and appears too empty, the action should be reversed. Dark shades of warm, glowing colors should be used to draw together an oversized room. Square rooms may be made to appear rectangular by finishing opposite walls in a light shade and paneling the other two walls in clear or knotty pine. A fireplace wall in knotty pine provides a harmonious background for a cheery blaze and takes away the monotony of four identical walls.

When too much sunlight streams into a room, the intensity should be tempered with green or shades of blue. Rooms receiving too little sunlight should be treated with sun shades such as yellow, light gold or chartreuse.

Proteins Yield Casein Paints

Casein paint, offered for decorative use on walls and ceilings takes its name from the protein substance derived from milk curds. While it's one of the oldest known coatings, steady progress has been made in recent years in product betterment. Prime pigments and extenders are incorporated with the casein as a vehicle or binder, and the resultant paste or powder is then thinned with water, which evaporates to leave an insoluble film. Casein paints have high opacity and can cover a surface in one coat. Some technicians say no wall size is needed, but others suggest a size on very porous surfaces to guard against spotting.

Simplicity Factor In Small Homes

Simplicity should be the governing factor in small-home planning, as excess maintenance costs caused by bad design add additional burdens.

This does not imply that the small house must be an unsightly box. Small homes can be built to fit for an elderly person, follow the modern trend of plenty of color in draperies, walls and floor, preferably using warm tones. Consult the occupant as to his or her color tastes and preferences. Admit maximum light into the room by hanging draperies against the wall beside the window casings instead of over the glass itself.

Install an asphalt tile floor, both for beauty and color it adds to the room and for its high non-slipping safety factor. Since it is warm and resilient under-foot, no rugs are needed; the danger of slipping on small scatter rugs prevented. Asphalt tile does not require a high-gloss wax and if excessive waxing is avoided a person is less likely to slip on it than on other types of smooth-surfaced flooring. Mod-

Permanent Glaze

In buying glazed chintz, warns the American Institute of Laundrying, make sure that the glazed finish is of a permanent nature. Otherwise the "polish" or glaze will wash out or crack, even with the most careful handling when laundered.

Flat Enamel

Flat interior enamel produces a soft, dull finish. In addition to being used as a finish coat, it is also sometimes used as an undercoater for high gloss enamel.

Orderly But Steady Growth Envisioned

Tobyhanna — The entire general development plan, created by Clifton E. Rodgers and his staff, expert planning consultants for this community and vicinity, to provide a modern, attractive New Town for some 3,500 workers at the Army Signal Depot here, can accommodate a total of approximately 14,000 persons.

The planning was made elastic enough to serve almost any eventuality. Two reproductions of maps of planning stages at the left show (top) the general development plan with the Lackawanna Trail running toward Scranton from right to left.

The compact layout near the center of the map is the first stage of the New Town development. The area is on southwest side of Rt. 611, immediately adjacent to Tobyhanna Creek. Home for about 931 families can be constructed here. Closeness to logical location of sewage disposal facilities along the creek at this point gives this area a top priority.

At lower right is second phase of New Town Development. This area, constituting an extension of first phase, will accommodate some 1,910 families.

The third phase, after more than 2,250 families are accommodated in the first two, is reserved for an unforeseen overflow of population beyond first two stages. An additional 1,263 families can be accommodated here. The third phase is at upper right.

Lower map reproduction shows the off Route 611 entrance to the first phase of New Town Development with the sections reserved for shopping center, municipal building, play areas, expansion and auxiliary commercial facilities for a modern New Town development.

Consultants emphasize that adherence to the stage development plan will permit unpredictable cessation of development activities to occur at any time without undue interference to the basic principles upon which the plan is based.

Such a plan, consultants believe, will provide for a logical system of priorities in development which will insure orderly and economical growth of a New Town in accordance with proper objectives, and in harmony with technical requirements.

Laurelwood Cemetery Puplicized

Publicity in various trade publications and from visiting cemeterians, who have been impressed with the beauty and innovations of Laurelwood cemetery, Stroudsburg, is being registered throughout the country.

The official publication of the American Cemetery Association, published monthly in Knoxville, Tenn., features an article titled "Landscaped Room—New Burial Conception," carrying six cuts of Laurelwood views.

F. S. LaBar, president and treasurer of Laurelwood, is a speaker on the program of the 65th anniversary meeting of the American Cemetery Association scheduled for Atlantic City later this month, and will talk on "The Family Room—A Landscaping Development of Distinction."

Mr. LaBar is active in cemetery trade association on the State and national level, being a director of the Cemetery Association of Pennsylvania, and a member of the Landscape and Horticulture Committee of the American Cemetery Association.

Laurelwood presently has twenty-two of the landscaped "rooms" that have caused so much favorable comment, with several more in the planning stage for the new Gate of Heaven section.

These so-called "rooms" are not original with the local cemetery, but they were the first to do it on a commercial scale. Interestingly enough the idea came about through LaBar's Rhododendron nursery back in 1925 before Laurelwood was even contemplated.

At that time the local nursery was commissioned to supply a great quantity of nursery stock to a cemetery at Locust Valley, Long Island, through the famous landscape architecture firm of Olmsted Brothers of Brookline, Mass.

It developed that this material was to be used for an addition to the old cemetery at Locust Valley, made possible by the late J. Pierpont Morgan. Olmsted Brothers conceived the idea of these landscaped plots for Mr. Morgan, and his associates of the House of Morgan, and the local nursery supplied the material.

When Laurelwood was started it was only natural that these room developments were thought of, and now they are bringing national recognition in the concerted effort to streamline the cemetery of tomorrow. It is but another example of the progressiveness of the fine area.

Century Of Local County Church Group

Appenzell — The 100th anniversary celebration of the congregations of the Appenzell Lutheran and Reformed church held on Sunday last attracted capacity audiences for both the morning and night services.

The church presented a scene of floral beauty with mixed flowers in vases and 21 large baskets of flowers all banked in the front of the edifice.

Rev. Dwight F. Putman, of the Lutheran Synod brought the message at the anniversary service at 10:30 in the morning. The choir was heard in two numbers, "The Blessed Gospel" and "Whispers of Jesus."

Following the service a picnic lunch was served in the grove when many of the older members met and reminisced pleasantly over old times.

Rev. Frank W. Teske, of the Reformed Synod, was the guest speaker at the night service at 8. William Lesh, who prepared the booklet which was distributed after much careful research, gave a historical talk which proved interesting as well as timely.

Special music was given by the Pocono Male chorus, of Stroudsburg, Thomas Barry, director and Mrs. Dewey Jacoby, accompanist. They were heard in six selections, which were very much enjoyed.

Bibles suitably inscribed were given the oldest, youngest and the one traveling the longest distance to participate in the services by Rev. Garnet Zimmerman, pastor of the charge.

The oldest person receiving a Bible was James Frable Sr., the youngest to Lynn Edith Frable and one traveling the longest distance to Mrs. Etta Paul Jester, who came from Columbus, Ohio.

Rev. Zimmerman and the committee in charge of the arrangements worked faithfully in their planning and were heartily commended for their efforts which proved so successful.

Life of Riley

By JIM RILEY
Sports Editor

A North Atlantic League meeting called by circuit president Ernest "Duke" Landgraf, to decide if it is advisable to return to operation in 1952, will be held on Sunday, September 16, and not today as previously announced within these confines. All interested parties are scheduled to attend the session at the Americana Hotel, at 1:30 p.m., at which time the future of the circuit will be decided. The loop went into a one-year lapse last winter, due to national and international conditions.

Reports making the rounds indicate that Carlton Berger, one time basketball, football and baseball star at Lafayette, will assist in the softball and basketball coaching duties at Stroudsburg High school this year, although there hasn't been any confirmation from school authorities. It has also been learned, unofficially, that Berger, a resident of Allentown, will teach in the history department. The Lafayette grad is expected to be confirmed at the next meeting of the Stroudsburg school board, a week from today.

Danny Gardella, former manager of Peckskill and Bangor entries in the North Atlantic League, pitched a doubleheader for Wilmington, Del., of the class "B" Inter-State League the other day. The veteran left handed first sacker lost the first contest to Salisburg, Md., 2-1, but came back to cap the nightcap, 4-3. Gardella, who began the season as pilot of Three Rivers, Que., of the class "C" Provincial League, was moved over from his first base post to conserve the regular hurlers for the post-season playoff grind. Wilmington is managed by Danny Carnevale, who piloted the Cambendale Pioneer Blues, NAL, in 1948.

Harry Schaeffer, regardless of what happens the remainder of the season in the class "AA" Texas League, will enjoy his most successful season since entering professional baseball. Schaeffer, who toiled with the Stroudsburg Poconos in 1946 and 1947, has a mark of 18 victories and only seven setbacks for Beaumont. The East Stroudsburg State Teachers College graduate has appeared in 31 games, worked 244 innings, fanned 81 batters and is sporting a percentage rating of .720. Harry's most recent win was a 4-0 affair over Fort Worth. Schaeffer's fifth win in six tries against the Dodge farmhands.

Despite a recent fund raising campaign, this column has been advised that the East Stroudsburg Little League needs more money to finish work on its Little League stadium. The forces behind the Eastburg circuit hope to complete work on the stadium in the near future, in order that it will be ready for use next season. Donations will be gladly accepted by any of the Eastburg Little League officials and will be immediately turned into working power at the stadium. The East Stroudsburg loop will hold a picnic for all its members at the East Stroudsburg playground next Tuesday, at 6 p.m.

Jim Barnhardt, one time student at the East Stroudsburg State Teachers College and pitcher with the Bangor entry in the North Atlantic League last year, became the first hurler in the history of Portsmouth baseball in the Class "B" Piedmont League to toss a no-hitter. The right hander turned in the hillless gem against Richmond and finished on the long end of an 8-0 count. Barnhardt has now won 18 and lost six games, a lot better than his total of 12 wins with Bangor last year. However, Jim only toiled a portion of the 1950 campaign with the Slaters, receiving a late start in the pennant dash.

"Monk" Webb, veteran right hander with the Mahanay City Brewers a couple of years back, is still going strong, so it has been learned. The very popular chuckler turned the iron man stunt recently for Amarillo, Tex., fifth place club in the West Texas-New Mexico League, a class "C" loop. Webb won a pair of seven-inning games on the same day, finishing on the long end of a 16-3 count in the lifter, then coming back to bag the nightcap, 8-1. Webb and Mike Koons, then manager of the Brewers, hurled Mahanay City into second place in 1949 and extended the pennant winning Poconos to seven games in the championship play-off season.

Although it seems impossible that the summer season has passed into history, one need only look at the 1951 football schedules to see that autumn is here. Stroudsburg opens the grid campaign at Bangor a week from tomorrow night, while East Stroudsburg begins the season at home on the same night, while playing host to Slatton. School opens today and football season next week—things are back to normal now.

Old Masters Tourney Opens Annual Play

Shawnee-on-Delaware. — Tom Robbins and Bill Diddle, the two, voted most likely to succeed in the Old Masters tournament, opening here at Shawnee Inn yesterday, rewarded their supporters with a close one-up victory over G. R. "Doc" Love and Vego Larsen.

The winning pair, from Larchmont, N. Y., and Indianapolis, Ind., respectively, had the needed steadiness in the tight spots to outlast the twosome of Larsen and Love.

Bill Murtha and Bill Lane combined to score an identical one-up decision over Ed Eisenhower and Frank Elliot, in another ding-dong struggle staged during the afternoon on Shawnee's golf layout.

A. W. "Gill" Gilmore and Steve Creekmore won over Ken and Jim Marion, by another one-up tabulation. Dr. Don Jaffar and Malcolm Thorpe scored a fourth straight one-up verdict over "Chick" Evans and Paul Hyde.

Tom Wootton and Ray Jones, scored a two-and-one decision over Pete Jarboe and Ian MacCallum, while "Eggs" Quittner, Philadelphia teamed with John Roberts, Columbus, O., to roll over Jack Rowland and George Edmondson, six-and-five.

Victories

"Bud" Gillespie and "Bud" Gould "buddied" together to score a two-and-one verdict over Charlie Told and Bill Hill, while the final match of the championship bracket found Ken Huffine and Clark Espeie continuing their quest for the Fred Waring Bowl with a narrow one-up victory over "Hank" Platt and Walter Kennedy.

George Shillinger and Walter Caswell teamed to win the first match in the Willie Norton Trophy tournament, a non-championship affair, over Carey Alexander and Bob Adams, four-and-three. The second match in this bracket resulted in a six-and-four win for O. V. Russell and Jim Koch over J. O. Wible and Tom McWilliams. A third score in the Norton group featured Frank Patterson, Shawnee, and Walter Preston in a six-and-five verdict over "Doc" Cullen and Paul Mooney.

The Bill Waite Memorial, featuring some of the top amateur talent in the golf world, will get underway here today, at 10 a. m.

Connolly Youngest To Wear Women's Crown

Forest Hills, N. Y. — Maureen Connolly, a 16-year-old scrapper from away back, thrilled a crowd of 2,500 to its finger tips yesterday when she fought through a broiling third set to defeat Shirley Fry, of Akron, O., 6-3, 1-6, 6-4, and became the youngest owner of the women's crown in the National Tennis Championships.

It looked as though the blonde kid was a goner when she became tired in the second set and rolled up a bushel of glaring errors. Her 24-year-old opponent was the favorite when they re-tired for a ten-minute rest. But when they came back on the grass, "Little Mo" was herself again, and in that grueling 34-minute final set she proved her claim to tennis greatness.

Victory Cry

As Shirley's final shot from the baseline fell just beyond Maureen's court, the gloriously happy youngster threw her arms skyward and loosed perhaps the loudest victory whoop ever heard in the big stadium. The crowd an instant later joined her in the peal of triumph.

There was no question of the San Diego girl's right to the trophy. In her semi-final match Tuesday she vanquished Doris Hart, the Wimbledon champion and short-odds tournament favorite. In scoring her six victories on the way to the title she lost only the one set, to Miss Fry yesterday.

Nineteen College Grid Tilts To Be Televised

New York — Nineteen of the nation's top college football games will be televised this fall under the National Collegiate Athletic Association's experiment program announced yesterday.

Limitations

Due to technical limitations, some famous teams are not represented on the schedule, such as Tennessee and Kentucky, neither of which, said George Ketchum of the advertising agency handling the arrangements, plays where games can be put on the network.

Pennsylvania, which threatened at one time to upset the college television program by televising all its home games, also is not represented. Ketchum, president of Ketchum, MacLeod and Grove, said Penn was offered the full network for the California game at Philadelphia September 29 but declined.

Ralph Furey, athletic director of Columbia and member of the NCAA television committee, described the schedule as a "controlled program designed to test the effects of television on football attendance."

Cubs Split With Cards

Chicago, (P) — The Chicago Cubs won an 11-inning game from the St. Louis Cardinals, 3 to 2, in the first half of a doubleheader yesterday, but lost 6-5 in the second game, called because of darkness after eight innings.

Although Gerry Staley was held for 13 hits including "Hank" Sauer's twenty-fourth and twenty-fifth home runs and Phil Cavarretta's sixth in the second game, the big right-hander recorded his sixteenth victory as compared with 13 defeats.

Seven Hits

Lefty Joe Hatten was tagged for seven of St. Louis' eight hits, among them Harry Lowry's number five homer, and five of the victor's tallies, before he yielded to Johnny Klippstein in the fifth inning. He was charged with his fourth loss against three wins.

House GOP To Discuss New Taxes

Harrisburg, Pa. — House Republicans were asked yesterday to meet here next Monday to act on a $138,000,000 tax program to replace the discarded income tax proposal.

A special House committee refused, however, to disclose the nature of the taxes to be submitted to the GOP caucus until after their presentation.

The group completed its work yesterday after two weeks of examining 29 different tax proposals to find a package to fill a gap in Gov. John S. Fine's $1,220,000,000 budget for the next two years.

"The various revenue-raising proposals considered by the committee totaled more than $600,000,000 in addition to those items contained in the Senate proposal," said Rep. Charles C. Smith, Republican floor leader.

The $138,000,000 Senate program, rejected by the House GOP caucus two weeks ago, called for new taxes on tobacco products and real estate transfers and increased levies on corporate net income, beer, cigarettes and gross receipts of public utilities.

Smith said the undisclosed House program is "sufficiently flexible" to make it likely that Republicans will accept the package.

Hooded Seal, Taken From Delaware, Dies

Philadelphia (AP)—"Mr. Bristol," the hooded seal sighted and taken into captivity last month off a float in the Delaware river near Bristol, Pa., died yesterday at the Philadelphia zoo.

He was a victim of a blood infection, "probably picked up in the river," Roger Conant, zoo curator, said.

"Mr. Bristol," who was sick when zoo officials pulled him out of the river, had not responded to repeated doses of penicillin and aureomycin.

His remains will be shipped

Community Advised To Help Industries Develop

H. G. Sanborn, general manager and vice president of the Worthington Mower company, Stroudsburg Rotarian, gave a general discussion of industry as it affects Monroe county before the Kiwanis club at the Penn-Stroud hotel yesterday afternoon, pointing out the neglect of industry and need of doing something about it. Dr. T. I. Metzgar, program chairman, presented the speaker. Mr. Sanborn will speak before Rotary club today on the subject.

In his introductory, the speaker declared: "You should take a look at this thing called industry. See what it does, what it takes to keep it going and then ask yourself if you want more of it, or less of it, for sometime you must decide for yourselves."

The speaker said he was not talking of one particular plant, but all of them as representing an activity here in the county. He said he saw industry as principally metal working, printing, textile and leather. He added he was purposely considering agriculture, dairying, the hotels and resorts and mercantile establishments as being in another classification.

Mr. Sanborn told of the facilities available in the county as in excess of a million dollars. Add to that the land value and the size of the investment is apparent. The four classifications mentioned above furnish employment to about 2,000 persons, he said. Add to that one dependent for each employed person and it shows 43 per cent of the Stroudsburgs and 20 per cent in the county are supported by them.

Reference was made to the fact the original plants were established years ago by local residents who have retired, sold out, or died. The original plants continued as before with little or no change, he said. There must be a reason and "I predict they will not change materially unless conditions are created that permit growth. Industry cannot stand still, if it does, it stagnates and dies. Now it need not be this way unless you want it so, because industry does respond quickly, and, once given the tools to work with, performs wonders."

The speaker told of the difficulty of expansions and perpetuating a business, operating more shifts, developing new products when there are no trained people to help. If new industries are brought in (Mr. Sanborn had referred to the report from the Chamber of Commerce that three industries were considering locating here) how will they be housed? he asked. He emphasized the lack of trained men and women here who are not employed and asked what the schools are doing about it, commending East Stroudsburg schools for their effort in a small shop.

Mr. Sanborn told of the difficulties faced by industry much of which is engaged directly or indirectly in defense work as well as products for civilian economy in getting production out for lack of trained labor. He added: "If we have any increase in the demands of the military establishment, most of our plants here won't make the grade without dropping all civilian work, and even then could not do an appreciably better job of defense production. If we want to do a better job in Monroe county, we have a long slow job of education ahead of us and we had better start the job now, it's long past due. If we want our people to stay here and live secure in the knowledge of being profitably employed, we had better get over our complacency and stop taking things for granted, because it's later than you think."

The speaker told of calls made by an industrial commission of the southern states offering all kinds of inducements to move the plant he represents to their locale, also the aid of the state college to train specialized men with free instructions and the like. He said if the last deal offered his concern had been accepted "it would have saved my company $50,000 per year and enabled us to own one of the finest plants in the United States in 10 to 15 years. We are not going to accept either of these deals." He said he hoped the manufacturers of Monroe county need not look elsewhere to locate.

"I predict after the emergency is over," Mr. Sanborn said, "that the competition between states will be stepped up, that states having decided industry is what they need to strengthen their state economy and better the well-being of their citizens will make offers that are hard to turn down. It's better to organize ourselves ahead of the actual need for a plan than to be stampeded into doing something under the pressure of an economic need."

The prosperity of an area is proportional with the prosperity of its people," he continued. "Up to this time Monroe county has been lucky with the industries it has. The task ahead of us is not so difficult, but it must be recognized for what it is—a serious civic and community problem with fateful economic consequences for good or bad, determined by the soundness

Come and get 'em!

Dad may be a dud in the kitchen, but he's a whiz at the outdoor barbecue. It takes a lot of effort, all right ... but the results are worth it!

These days it takes a lot of money, too. Food of all kinds, eaten inside or out, keeps going up in price. But don't blame the butcher or the grocer. Blame the dollar! In terms of what it will buy, the dollar is worth less and less.

In the telephone business, too, the dollar keeps squeezing the budget. Costs of supplies and equipment keep rising. Take desks, for example. We now must pay $116.25 for a desk that cost $40.50 in 1941. That's almost three times as much.

Compare the cost of your telephone service with the cost of other things, and you'll agree that telephone service is a big, big bargain. It would still be a bargain, even if it should cost more than it does today.

Telephone service has never been so valuable to so many people as it is right now.
